Mrs. King, 83, Dies at Memphis Thurs.

Mrs. William R. King, 83, descendant of two pioneer Hempstead County families, and benefactor of the Pioneer Washington Restoration Foundation died at her home in Memphis, Tennessee, Thursday night, after an illness of only a few hours.

Mrs. King, together with her husband, W.R. King, spent last week in Washington, where they maintained an apartment in The Tavern, reconstructed by the Kings and donated to the Washington Foundation several years ago. They returned to Memphis Sunday.

Mrs. King was born Lucille Hart, daughter of William T. Hart and Elizabeth Andrews Hart, both members of two of the county's earliest families. She was married to William R. King, also of Washington, but then a young Memphis businessman, in 1904. All of her adult life was spent in Memphis where Mr. King came to be one of that city's leading industrialists. Prior to his retirement, three years ago he had been head of the Wm. R. Moore Dry Goods Company, one of the South's largest wholesale firms; president and chairman of the board of Memphis' Bank of Commerce; and was a long-time director of the Illinois Central Railroad. Mrs. King was active in many civic and professional activities in Memphis for years. Throughout all of this time the Kings always maintained their interest in the Washington area, and when the Washington Foundation was formed seven years ago they became its principal contributors. The Old Tavern in Washington was completely their project, and they have been interested in many others.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Cosmopolitan Funeral Home in Memphis by Dr. Henry E. Acklen, pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Memphis.

The body will be brought overland for graveside services at 4 p.m. at Washington in charge of Herndon-Cornelius Funeral Home of Hope. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery.

Pallbearers will be members of the Washington Restoration Foundation Active: Ray Turner, Olin Hendrix, Bill Etter, Albert Graves Jr., Talbot Feild, Jr., Jimmy May.

Honorary: Mrs. Charles A. Haynes, Mrs. Mattie T. Wilson, Mrs. Pink Horton, Miss Mary Margaret Haynes, James H. Pilkinton, Joe Booker, Thomas E. Hays Jr., George Peck, B. W. Edwards and Thurston Hulsey.

The Kings had no children, and her only immediate survivor is her husband. Other kin in the state are first cousins, Mrs. Bessie Battle and Miss Mattie Royston of Fulton; Dr. Grandison D. Royston of Blewings; Mrs. Lena McClung of Morrilton, and Mrs. Randolph Hamby of Prescott.

It is requested that any memorials to Mrs. King be sent to the project in which she was deeply interested, the Washington Restoration Foundation.

Mrs. W. R. King

Teacher Was Critical, Lost His Job

MAYFLOWER, Ark. (AP) — The Mayflower School Board will not renew the contract of Supt. Paul Craig, who criticized the school system earlier this year.

"We felt he had done a commendable job but that he had served out his usefulness to this school system," said Board Chairman Royce Harrell.

Harrell said Arlie Metheny of Conway will get the superintendent's post. Metheny's contract was not renewed at Conway. He was assistant principal at Conway High School and has been acting superintendent since the Conway board fired Supt. Hays Gibson in March.

Craig came to Mayflower from Mayfield, Ky., in 1955.

He said recently that the Mayflower educational program had improved but that it lags in several areas. He recommended higher teacher salaries, a new science and industrial arts building and a more library space.

Craig also said that the district's elementary school for Negroes was obsolete and had "no moral or legal basis in modern America."

Syble Joins Lois' Beauty Shop Here

Lois' Beauty Shop announces that Syble Shirley Herndon is now a permanent member of the salon staff. Mrs. Herndon has had 10 years of experience having worked in the following salons:

Goldstein-Mige of Waco, Tex.; The Art Style of Texarkana and for the past two years has been employed by Barren Teagle of Ruston, La. Mr. Teagle is a well known color specialist as well as chairman of the Louisiana Hair Fashion Committee.

Mrs. Herndon has also studied under Geneva Wyatt as an instructor of advanced design and has done clinical work with Grace Cox, a runner-up in the National Hairdressing competition in Las Vegas.

She invites her friends to visit her at Lois' Beauty Shop.

Heart Attack Fatal to Driver

TRUMANN, Ark. (AP)—R.E. Smith, 79, of Trumann, died of a heart attack while driving his car on a county road 10 miles southwest of Trumann Thursday, State Trooper Bob Cooper said today.

The car went down an embankment and struck a tree, slightly injuring Smith's wife, Lelia, 78, who was riding in the car.

Threatened LBJ, on Probation

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—An Arizona man convicted of threatening the life of President Johnson has been placed on five years probation.

Norman P. Michaud, 43, of Fredonia, was convicted March 10 and committed to 60 days of observation at the Federal Bureau of Prisons Medical Institute at Springfield, Mo.

Michaud was convicted of making the threat in a call from a service station telephone booth in Kanab, Utah.

The probation sentence was handed down from Judge Willis W. Ritter Thursday in U.S. District Court in Salt Lake City.

Wants UN to Take Role in Far East Crisis

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are reported seriously considering the possibility of the United Nations undertaking a larger role in war-torn Southeast Asia than has so far been suggested.

This is one of the lines of action expected to be discussed when American policy-makers meet in Honolulu Monday and Tuesday to work out recommendations for President Johnson.

After studying the recommendations, Johnson may make some initial decisions on the U.S. course of action.

With the Communist offensive in Laos apparently slowed down, the air of urgency over the Southeast Asian situation has eased.

The Honolulu conference will take a long-range look at the problems of trying to secure peace and stability in Laos, Viet Nam and Cambodia, as well as discuss the immediate problems arising out of the Communist offensives.

Expanded military action by the United States is another of the possible courses to be considered. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said in a speech a week ago that, if Communist aggression continued, the result could be "to expand the war."

Johnson announced the Honolulu meeting Thursday, saying the purpose of the Cabinet-level talks would be "to review the situation in the entire area" of Southeast Asia.

Officials said the talks would be secret, and that recommendations would be reported only to the President.

Secretary Rusk, after attending Prime Minister Nehru's funeral in India, is scheduled to visit Bangkok, Thailand, and Saigon, South Viet Nam, this weekend on his way to Honolulu.

Others who will participate in the conference will be Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. envoy in South Viet Nam; Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

It is also understood that Assistant Secretary of State Harlan Cleveland, director of the Bureau of International Organization Affairs and an expert on U.N. activities, also is expected to take part.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson proposed in the U.N. Security Council last week that the United Nations might help in the Southeast Asian situation in one limited respect—to patrol the 600-mile Cambodian-South Vietnamese frontier to prevent further border incidents.

Cambodia had complained of South Vietnamese military actions violating its boundary.

Washington authorities are not certain what role the United Nations might play in Southeast Asia and no concrete proposals have taken shape.

One implication is that if the United States is prepared to support the use of U.N. patrols on the Cambodian Vietnamese border, it might also favor the introduction of U.N. peace-keeping units elsewhere in the area.

Hope Girl to Appear in Recital

Miss Kay Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.G. Bell of Hope, will play in a joint organ recital at the Presbyterian Church of Malvern Sunday, May 31, at 5 p.m. Also on the program is Miss Margaret McKinley of Malvern.

Miss Bell will be a Junior at Henderson State Teachers College in Arkadelphia this fall, where she has been an organ student under Robert Ellis.

Her selections come from three periods: Bach, Vienne, and Edmundson. She will be playing on the instrument installed in the Malvern church this year by Daniel B. Keller of Akron, Ohio, a 1961 graduate of Henderson.

Candidate Quits
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—William M. Byrd, publisher of the weekly West Side News, withdrew Thursday as a candidate for state representative in Pulaski County's 2d. The withdrawal leaves Rep. Sherman Blake Williams unopposed. Williams is seeking a second term.

Walker Gets Stay of Execution

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—James Dean Walker, 23, got a stay of execution Thursday so he can ask the Arkansas Supreme Court to review his conviction in the slaying of a police officer.

Justice Ed McPadden granted the stay on a petition filed by Walker's attorney after Circuit Judge William J. Kirby denied a motion for a new trial Wednesday.

Walker also asked the Supreme Court to overrule Kirby's refusal to order the county to pay costs of the appeal because Walker is a pauper. This request will have to be considered by the whole court.

Walker was convicted in the April 16, 1963, fatal shooting of Patrolman Jerrell Vaughn of North Little Rock. Vaughn was shot after he stopped a speeding car on a highway near North Little Rock.

Nikita Wants No Trouble About Cuba

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
PARIS (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev was described by a former U.S. senator today as believing that the United States should get adequate aerial inspection of Cuba from outer space and thus avoid any new crisis in the Caribbean.

William Benton, former Democratic senator from Connecticut, talked with Khrushchev on Thursday at the Kremlin. Benton gave his impressions of Khrushchev's views upon his arrival in Paris. He is the U.S. envoy to the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization which has its headquarters here.

Benton quoted Khrushchev as saying that Soviet spacemen have brought back photographs of American military installations and he assumes U.S. spacemen do the same in regard to the Soviet Union.

Benton told newsmen today that Khrushchev apparently was suggesting that the United States abandon reconnaissance flights which might encounter Cuban anti-aircraft fire. President Johnson has said such flights are necessary and will be continued.

Benton quoted Khrushchev as follows: "Neither President Johnson nor I want another crisis over Cuba. This is the time for sober sense to reign."

Benton said that Khrushchev, obviously concerned lest Cuba provoke another U.S.-Russian confrontation, also suggested that the Americans confine their planes to offshore flights over neutral waters. Here, Khrushchev presumably meant the use of wide-angle lenses which might be able to take adequate photographs from high altitudes.

A reminder to local Girl Scouts about Day Camp Monday through Friday next week. What to bring and wear? Girl Scout Handbook, "nose bag" lunch, clothes pin (snap style) marked with camper's name to hang up lunch, sit-upon, a light blanket to use for rest period; wear comfortable out-of-door clothes (no hangers because of sunburn), sturdy shoes and socks for hiking, and a sun cap. All items should be clean.

New Racial Violence in St. Augustine

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—New racial violence was reported today in this ancient city and authorities met to consider a ban on racial demonstrations.

Harry G. Boyle, Atlanta, Ga., a white man identified as an aide to Dr. Martin Luther King, told police rifle bullets and shotgun blasts were fired into a cottage rented for King but unoccupied overnight. There was no confirmation from police.

Boyle also said shotgun pellets were fired at a car in which he rode with his son, Harry C. Boyle, 19. Police reported finding that pellets had been fired into a car after Boyle parked at a motel.

Chief of Police Virgil Stuart, and St. Johns County Sheriff L. O. Davis met with County Judge Charles Mathis Jr. to consider the legality of a ban on demonstrations.

Groups of white youths injured two newsmen and roughed up several other persons Thursday night when Negro civil rights demonstrators marched into the city's old Slave Market Square.

Truckers Ask Increase in Rates

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Truckers told the Arkansas Commerce Committee Thursday that rising labor cost is a main reason they are asking for a 15 per cent increase in intrastate freight rates.

W.G. Karsten, an official of the Arkansas Best Freight System, testified at a commission hearing that a new contract with the Teamsters Union provides for a 28.9 per cent cost in wages and fringe benefits of drivers.

The commission recessed the hearing until June 11. At that time organizations opposing the increase will present testimony.

J.D. Hughett, general manager of the Southwest Motor Freight Bureau of Dallas, agent for some 70 trucking firms, testified that the 15 per cent request was a compromise because some firms wanted to ask for a higher increase.

Hughett said the last general increase in truck freight rates was approved in 1958. Several chambers of commerce, the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission and shippers are opposing the increase.

Club Has Its 25th Anniversary

"This Is Your Life, Mrs. Cosmopolitan Club," was the theme of the program presented Tuesday night, May 26.

The Cosmopolitan Club celebrated the close of its 25th year with a dinner at the Heritage House. A centerpiece of pink gladioli was sent by Mrs. Lyman Armstrong, former member, who could not be present.

Placecards contained sterling silver book marks.

Mrs. R.L. Broach and Mrs. Perry Moses reminisced informally as they turned through the pages of the club's scrapbook. As they chatted, they read parts of letters from some 20 former members who now live as far away as Sarasota, Florida.

There were messages of congratulations, and each filled in the years since they have lived in Hope.

In the quiz session which followed, there was more "memory work" as club members participated in remembering such events as the first child born to a member after the club was organized and who gave the first book review.

Eight charter members were present including Mrs. Charles Rounton of Baton Rouge, Mrs. James H. Jones, Mrs. George Mrs. Perry Moses, Mrs. Henry Haynes, Mrs. Jim McKenzie, and Mrs. Royce Smith. Mrs. Edwin Stewart, former member, was also a guest.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Teddy Jones, Mrs. L. T. Lawrence, Mrs. Perry Moses, Mrs. Jim McKenzie, Mrs. Cecil Wyatt, and Mrs. R.E. Jackson.

Power Struggle Follows Death of Mr. Nehru

By CONRAD FINK
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A struggle for the government leadership left vacant by the death of Prime Minister Nehru threatened today to plunge India into political crisis.

Rivalry among candidates for prime minister threatened to break into an open battle which could do serious harm to the nation and Nehru's ruling Congress party.

The capital's newspapers devoted front pages to the cremation rites for the 74-year-old Nehru Thursday. But editorial pages were given over to somber reflections on the future.

"There were demands that the Congress party settle its quarrels quietly and make a unanimous choice, to avoid feeding the fires of factionalism and separatism that kept Nehru from tearing India apart."

"In this hour of great sorrow," said the Indian Express, "the Congress party must rise to the occasion."

The Statesman said Nehru's "reluctance to nominate or groom any one of the leaders as his clear and undisputed successor would not have been so disquieting had he left behind a well-disciplined cadre dedicated to the ideals of Nehruism or even a well-disciplined party machine."

After Nehru's death, President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan designated Home Minister G. L. Nanda acting prime minister, to serve until the Congress party, as the majority party in Parliament, elects Nehru's successor.

A Congress spokesman said party leaders had not decided when to hold the election.

The leading candidates are minister without portfolio Lal Bahadur Shastri, Acting Prime Minister Nanda and Finance Minister T. T. Krishnamachari.

Shastri was one of Nehru's best friends and has widespread support in the party. A well-informed source said he had assurances of support from President Radhakrishnan and Kumaraswami Kamaraj, president of the party.

Hull House Burns, Two Are Injured

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Two men were injured, neither seriously, Thursday in an explosion and fire which destroyed the three-story hull house of the Arkansas Rice Growers Co-operative mill here.

A third man, James Chapman, an employee of the mill, suffered a broken arm when he fell from a ladder while handling a fire hose.

Raymond Broadway, 50, and William D. Brandon, 27, were in the hull house when the explosion occurred. They suffered minor burns and abrasions.

Brandon said he believes that sparks from a grinder ignited dust residue from rice hulls being processed.

"The explosion just picked me up and rolled me along the floor," he said. "I got up running."

Chapman came to fight the fire from his job in the nearby dryer section of the mill.

Firefighters kept the flames from other buildings in the mill complex. They were hampered for a time by lack of water pressure.

Mill Manager H.L. Parks said all mill operations would be halted temporarily. No estimate of the damage was made immediately.

Three boxcars on a siding near the hull house were damaged by flames.

Ft. Smith Starts Another Census

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Fort Smith will start another special census Monday, hoping its population has reached the 68,000 estimated by the Chamber of Commerce.

Fort Smith officially has 63,300 residents, the count in a 1962 special census. This was an increase of 10,318 from the 1960 regular census.

More official population means more state turnback funds for the city which will pay costs of the census. The Census Bureau estimates that the count will be complete by June 26.

U.S., Britain in Accord on Laos Stand

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
LONDON (AP)—American presidential envoy William E. Bundy flew to New Delhi today after reaching what was described officially as "complete understanding" with the British on possible allied moves to resolve the grave Laotian crisis.

But diplomatic sources said also that Britain gave no blanket commitment for support of military action that might be undertaken by the United States.

In India, Bundy will join Secretary of State Dean Rusk on a tour through Bangkok, Saigon and Honolulu where a meeting of top American diplomats and military men opens Monday.

The talks are expected to produce recommendations for firm U.S. military and other action designed to compel pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces in Laos to pull back from their newly won positions in the Plain de Jarres.

Bundy, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, conferred Thursday and this morning with Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler and other high British officials.

An American-British communiqué issued as he was leaving said:

"There was complete understanding between the two sides on the gravity of the situation in Laos and on the various courses open to us in trying to restore it."

Bundy left British authorities with the clear impression that American military reinforcements are likely to be hurried into Thailand, diplomatic sources said.

Any such action would be taken only at the invitation of the Bangkok government. Allied officials here said that seems to be a main reason why Rusk is flying Saturday to the Thai capital.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Roy L. Johnson, head of the Weights and Standards Division of the Highway Department, was elected president of the Arkansas Peace Officers Association Thursday.

Ralph S. Harris of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service was named vice president and Lt. Col. Carl L. Miller of the State Police was named secretary-treasurer.

Leroy M. Letteer, special agent in charge of the Little Rock office of the U. S. Secret Service, told the peace officers in a speech that the day will come when handwriting characteristics will be used to identify criminals as fingerprints are used today.

"There is only one chance in 68 trillion that a person's handwriting will be identical with someone else's in every respect," Letteer said.

Presidential Succession a Problem

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is still wrestling with the long-standing national confusion about presidential succession and disability, and the end is not in sight.

Through the years solutions have been offered by the bushel. Congress acted on some, passing laws and changing them. Lyndon B. Johnson's succession to the presidency, leaving the vice presidency vacant, revived the dilemma.

Two former presidents, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman, and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon have agreed something should be done but not exactly on how. There has been wide disagreement in Congress.

Earlier this year Truman and Nixon suggested the Electoral College elect a new vice president to fill a vacancy in that office. Eisenhower this week had a different idea.

He suggested the president be empowered to name a vice president if there isn't one, provided the man he picks is approved by both houses of Congress.

The American Bar Association had already recommended that procedure be followed through a constitutional amendment. A Senate subcommittee, working on the problem for months, feels the same way.

It was expected to suggest, perhaps today, that this be done. But a constitutional amendment needs approval by two-thirds of both houses of Congress and by three-fourths of the states.

The trouble here is at the start, for while the Senate may approve one plan the House may prefer another. But that is only part of the problem. The other is the question of presidential disability.

How does a vice president take over if a president is disabled, or how does he take over if a president is disabled but doesn't know it or won't or can't admit it?

Eisenhower and Nixon and after them Presidents John F. Kennedy and Johnson had an understanding; there was no law covering this. Now Johnson has a similar agreement with the man next in line to succeed him because there is no vice president, House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

Truman had said that once a vice president takes office, because of a president's disability, the president would not be entitled to resume his office if and when he recovered.

But Eisenhower said he had no fear that a vice president would refuse to surrender the presidency — once a stricken president was able to resume it — because, he said, "I think" he couldn't possibly get away with it.

Nixon said the arrangements worked out by Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson in case of their disability — letters to the men next in line to succeed them — lack the force of law and would be inadequate if a dispute arose.

Under a law passed in 1947 if the president dies, and there is no vice president, next in line to succeed is the House speaker, right now, McCormack, and then the Senate's president pro tempore, right now, Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz.

The Senate subcommittee is expected to recommend a constitutional amendment covering both the succession to the presidency, explained above, and the problem of disability this way:

When a president says in writing he's too disabled to carry out his job, the vice president would become acting president until the president declared his disability ended.

If the president didn't make his disability known, the vice president with approval by a majority of the Cabinet could declare the president disabled and assume the powers and duties but not the office of president.

If the president disputed this act of his vice president and Cabinet, Congress would have to decide by a two-thirds vote of both houses for the vice president to continue as acting president. Otherwise, the president would resume his powers and duties.

"DEAR ABBY"

IT'S FOOLISHNESS!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: In June of 1962 I was visiting a friend who is an older woman and a member of my church. While sitting on her front porch she looked down at my hands and a very frightened look came across her face.

She then proceeded to tell me that the lines on my hands revealed that I should watch out for chest and respiratory infections. Then she said I should not sing in the church choir because of this possible chest trouble.

But what bothers me most is that she told me I could expect some very bad luck in the summer of 1965. I just can't shake this thought, and am walking around like a condemned woman. Should I believe her? Would you call it witchcraft?

CONDEMNED
Dear Condemned: I would call it "NONSENSE" and would put it out of my mind immediately. If you want further reassurance, visit your doctor for a thorough checkup. And ask him to give special attention to your chest and respiratory system, but don't tell him why or he might send you to a psychiatrist.

Dear Abby: Last Christmas my husband and I received gifts from his brother and sister-in-law who are over in Germany. I fooled around and never did get around to writing to thank them. Is there anything I can do now?

EMBARRASSED
Dear Embarrassed: Yes. You can write and apologize for your tardiness, and thank them. Better late than never.

Dear Abby: Tell the woman whose neighbor shocked her by wearing flesh-colored elastic swim trunks in his yard to sunbathe and do his gardening that I have a neighbor who tops hers. He wears swim shorts and a wool jacket to go out and shovel the snow. He drinks grass that has been put through a blender, and he parks his Volkswagen on his lawn like a kid would a bicycle. And this is the pay-off. He calls everybody else "crazy."

Mrs. B.

Dear Abby: You can sure tell a lot about people by the way their children answer the phone. We have taught ours to ask:

Medicare Is Paying Off for Doctors

By ED COLEMAN

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—Item: Two years ago Saskatchewan doctors fought introduction of North America's first sweeping government medicare plan with a bitter 23-day strike. Today the doctors are making more money under medicare than they did in private practice.

Item: Premiums paid by residents of this Canadian province to help finance medicare have been cut in half.

Item: The Socialist government that fathered the controversial health insurance scheme lost a recent provincial election. But medicare was not a campaign issue. Liberal Premier Ross Thatcher, who took office last week, is not expected to make major changes in the medical plan he once opposed. On the surface, Saskatchewan appears to have proved that a compulsory, state-run medicare program covering all residents of all ages can win the support of doctors, the public and politicians.

But it would be misleading to call Saskatchewan's medicare plan an unqualified success. The old arguments still rage here over medicare's effect on the quality of medical service, the cost, government interference in the practice of medicine and red tape.

Dr. E. W. Barootes, president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, conceded that doctors are making more money. The college is Saskatchewan's professional medical association.

"If all doctors wanted was more cash," Barootes said, "we would have been on the bandwagon from the beginning."

He called it a matter of simple arithmetic. Medicare, Barootes said, has encouraged more people to visit doctors more often at no extra personal cost. The government pays the larger bill to roughly the same number of doctors formerly engaged in private practice. Fewer bills go unpaid. By some accounts doctors are making an average of $2,000 a year more.

But the doctors are concerned about the quality of medical service involved, Barootes said. Under medicare, he said, they are increasingly forced to steal time from patients who need them to examine others with minor or imagined complaints. "Doctors who used to see 20 patients a day now must see as many as 70," he said.

Medicare, he added, has taken the regulation of hospitals and medical standards away from the profession and placed them in the political sphere, under government-appointed medical boards. "The government tells you who can take out a lung," he said. The medicare plan of former Premier Woodrow Lloyd's Socialist government required Saskatchewan residents to pay premiums of $24 a year for families and $12 for individuals. More than two-thirds of the costs are financed from boosts in sales income and corporate taxes.

The premiums were cut 50 per cent last September because the tax sources brought in more revenue than expected. Saskatchewan's economy is booming from record wheat sales.

The compromise which ended the doctors' boycott in July 1961 liberalized the plan by allowing doctors to also practice outside medicare. Residents, however, must still pay premiums and taxes even if they rely on private medical services.

Vandals Use Big Highway Machines

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Damages caused by vandals driving huge roadbuilding machines have been estimated at several thousand dollars.

A spokesman for Thomaston Associates, Inc., of Montgomery, said Thursday at least $1,000 damage was done to a concrete drain in addition to damages to the giant earthmoving machines, graders and bulldozers which were found rammed together.

Unseasonably Cool Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Unseasonably cool weather covered broad areas of the nation today from New England to the Plateau region with some of the chilly air dripping into parts of the Southland.

It was freezing in parts of the northern Midwest and temperatures in the 30s and 40s were general in the North Central region, northern Maine and northern New York State. Frost was indicated in sections of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan and in the lowlands of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

The dome of the cold air which dropped temperatures far below seasonal levels was centered in north-central Canada and fairly cool weather appeared likely for the weekend. Temperatures were near normal in the Pacific Coast region and the Southwest region.

Tomatoes Sold

HERMITAGE, Ark. (AP) — A.H. Bellamy, owner of a chain of groceries, bought the first half-bushel of marketable Bradley County pink tomatoes Thursday at an auction conducted by Gov. Orval E. Faubus. Ronald Clanton grew the tomatoes on a farm near Hermitage. Bellamy operates "Mad Butcher" stores in Pine Bluff, Fordyce and Warren.

Television and Radio
By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) - "It's nice, but it's also sort of sad," said the tall, lanky fellow with thinning hair. "After 25 years as the Amazing Ballantine suddenly I'm Lester Gruber. And 95 per cent of the people don't even remember all the years on the Ed Sullivan Show."
Carl - the Amazing Ballantine - may be rueful about the recent strange shift in his career, but it is a story with a happy ending.
Over the years, Ballantine built a popular and highly profitable vaudeville act, appearing in magnificently tailored evening clothes and with all the sweeping gestures of the stage magician, but doing tricks that turned into minor disasters - rabbits refused to emerge from top hats, ladies refused to be saved in half, the wrong card always popped out of the pack.
Then something tragic started to happen to vaudeville and Ballantine - who does not like to play night clubs - started seriously to look around.
"When McHale's Navy came up, there were only eight weeks of vaudeville a year left in this country, coast to coast. I have to work 40 weeks a year to make the money I earn on this 'TV show,'" he said.
Show business always knew him as a deft comedian who pulled laughs with fumbling magic tricks. Thus he had some acting offers, including a regular part in "Car 54" with he reluctantly turned down for the ABC Navy comedy.
"I read for the Gruber role," he recalled. "It was just one of about 40 guys looking for the part. They called me four days later to tell me I had it."
Carl plays a torpedoman with the instincts of a con man.
"It's a cinch," he said gleefully. "I am Gruber-Gruber is me. Other actors may study a

The Story: Milo March, insurance investigator, is calling on Mrs. Rako, wife of Thomas Rako, who is missing. A million dollars in insurance will have to be paid if Rako is declared legally dead.

"You're younger than I thought you would be," I observed to Mrs. Rako.
She smiled. "It's nice of you to say that, but I'm not as young as I'd like to think I am. And Tom would be 40 - if he were still alive."
"I don't know," I admitted. "You must not have been married long when he disappeared."
"A little more than three years."
I looked around the room again. "You seem to have managed pretty well."
"Oh, we already owned this home. And I had my own savings account. Then I had my own business and it's been doing quite well. Now my lawyer tells me that I'll be getting the insurance money in about a month."
"That's a possibility. What do you think you'll do then, Mrs. Rako?"
"Just go on as I have been. This is my home and I like it and I also like my business."
"Some people might think that when your husband vanished he left the country and went somewhere, perhaps Europe or South America, to live and that after you collect the insurance you might join him."
"What a horrible thing to think," she said. She blinked her eyes as though to avoid crying, but I didn't see any tears. "Well, I intend to stay right here, Mr. March."
"All right, Mrs. Rako. How did you happen to go into business with Mrs. Clark?"
"We both had money of our own, and we were tired of doing nothing. So we decided to go into business."
"Why did you decide on trucking?"
She leaned forward in her chair. "The things you're asking, Mr. March, have been asked a thousand times by the police, the FBI, and a dozen Congressional investigations. If there had been anything wrong with our business don't you think they would have discovered it?"
"Mrs. Rako," I said abruptly, "what do you think happened to your husband?"

"I don't know," she said. "Maybe he was the victim of a hit-and-run driver and the body couldn't be identified. Or maybe he was held up and killed for his money."
"Was he carrying much?"
"He always carried between two and $3,000."
"That's a nice piece of change," I said.
"He might have had amnesia and wandered off to some other city where he was killed. They were very mean to him in that hearing and it might have given him amnesia."
"That's at least an unusual reason for amnesia. Did it ever occur to you that Johnny Clark might have killed him so he couldn't talk."
"Oh, Mr. Clark wouldn't do anything like that. Besides there wasn't anything that Tom could have told that would hurt Mr. Clark in any way."
"Did your husband have anything on Johnny Clark?" I asked. "Maybe something on paper and put away in a safe deposit box?"
"Mr. March I've tried very hard to co-operate with you, but I have had six years of policemen coming around and making in situations about my husband and about me. It's my husband who's dead. I've lost something instead of gaining something, as everybody seems to think. I'm getting tired of all these suggestions. If you're so sure my husband's alive, go out and find him."
She stood up and led the way back to the front door. She was angry now. She held the door open and I went through it and down to the waiting cab. I told the driver to take me back to where he'd picked me up.
When we got there I went in to the nearest drug store and looked up the Carrier Workers Union in the phone book. They had two numbers, Local 15 and Local 97. Both were at the same address, about two blocks from where I was. I walked over.
The whole building belonged to the union, but 97 had its own floor. I took the elevator up and stooped into a swanky reception room. There was a sexy-looking blonde behind the desk. "My name's March," I told her. "I'd like to see the business manager."
She nodded and picked up her phone. She gave my name, listened, then replaced the receiver. "You can go in," she said. "It's that door there."
I walked over and opened the door. Then I stopped. The man sitting behind the desk was Nick Potti, the owner of the club I'd been in the night before.

Memorial Day on the Golf Links

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—
Memorial Day will be a memorable day on the nation's golf courses.

All over America, on the championship courses and the dinky par threes, the "hackers" get their chance Saturday to battle it out with PGA champion Jack Nicklaus and Open champion Julius Boros.

The two big-timers will match strokes Monday over Columbus Country Club's exacting layout, scene of the 1964 PGA championship. Galleries will pay $5 each to watch "me do it," starting at 1 p.m. EST.

The thousands of challengers in the National Golf Day Festival will toss at least $1 each into the charity pot, fire a round over their favorite layout, and then sit back and await Monday's result.

Those who defeat the champions on a handicap basis will receive certificates from the PGA. Columbus Country Club par is 70, so if Boros or Nicklaus shoots a 69, the challengers must be two under par on their home courses to get a certificate.

Golfers may play as many rounds as they desire, upon payment of $1 for each round, and the receipts — along with the net game for the Monday Round of Champions exhibition here — will go to the PGA for distribution to various projects and charities.

Since 1952, when the event was inaugurated, more than 1,093,000 golfers have challenged the champions, and some $950,000 has been realized for the PGA projects.

The lek is the monetary unit of Albania.

Mays Defeats Cards; Pirates Drop the Phils

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

There were 8,649 fans in Forbes Field, but Philadelphia Manager Gene Mauch noticed a Face in the scoreboard.

So he protested.

National League headquarters now has a rather delicate decision to make.

Here's what happened Thursday night as the Phillies lost to Pittsburgh 6-5 and dropped into second place behind the San Francisco Giants, who defeated St. Louis 2-1 on Willie Mays' 18th homer.

Mauch protested as the Phillies came to bat in the sixth inning, complaining that he had spotted a face in the left field scoreboard. Mauch said it belonged to Elroy Face.

Knowing full well that faces in scoreboards often steal signs, Mauch said this Face had no business there.

The Pirates' relief specialist admitted he was in the scoreboard.

"I went there just before the first Philadelphia hitter came up in the sixth," he said. And, said Face, he had a reason for being in the scoreboard:

He was using the rest room facilities there.

The case now goes to the National League jury. Warren

Giles presiding.

While the Phillies and Giants were exchanging place in the standings, the Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati played the longest game of the season — with neither team winning. It ended in a 2-2 tie, called because of curfew after 17 innings, and will have to be replayed.

Elsewhere in the NL, a suicide squeeze bunt by Nellie Fox gave Houston the tie-breaking run in a 4-2 victory over Milwaukee and the Chicago Cubs defeated the New York Mets 2-0 on Billy Williams' 11th homer and Larry Jackson's three-hit pitching.

In the only American League game scheduled, Kansas City capitalized on four Chicago errors and handed Juan Pizarro his first loss by beating the White Sox 4-1.

After the early skirmishing, including Mauch's protest, the Phillies took a 5-4 lead in the eighth on Roy Sievers' sacrifice fly. The Pirates tied it in their half of the inning on a homer by Willie Stargell, then won in the ninth on a walk to Jim Pagarioni and singles by Stargell and Dick Schofield.

Curt Simmons, now 6-3, scored the Cardinal run in the fifth inning on Curt Flood's double and had the Giants blanked on five hits until the eighth. Cap Peterson then led off with a walk, and waited two outs before Mays connected. Mays' shot was touched by a fan in the stands and the ball was knocked back onto the field but the umpires waved him home.

The Dodgers and Reds were scoreless until the 12th. The Dodgers scored two against Cincinnati starter Jim Maloney on his throwing error and a run-producing single by Tommy Davis. The Reds then tied the score in their half on run-scoring singles by Leo Cardenas and Johnny Edwards. It stayed that way until the 12:50 a.m. local curfew time ruled a halt.

Fox' hunt with the bases loaded and the score tied 1-1 in the eighth scored John Bateman with the tiebreaker for the Colts and tagged Warren Spahn, now 44, with the defeat. Mike White's single accounted for the other two runs. Hal Woode schick, who hasn't been scored on in his last 10 relief appearances preserved the victory for Ken Johnson, 5-4.

The Cubs managed only two hits off Galen Cisco and Larry Bearnarth, but scored in the first on Lou Brock's double, his steal of third and an infield out. Williams' homer in the sixth gave Jackson, 6-4, additional working room.

The A's scored three unearned runs on the four White Sox errors and that was more than enough. Orlando Pena benefited from the runs and brought his record to 6-3 with John Wyatt's relief help. Pizarro now is 5-1.
